The Probation of Offenders Act, 1958

The Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 is based on the individualistic approach to the convicts and dealing with young offenders in an amicable manner. It is believed that young offenders can be stopped from becoming habitual offenders if probation is allowed to them. The Act aims to provide for the release of offenders on probation or upon due admonition and all the matters connected therewith. It contains 19 sections and extends to the whole of India except the State of Jammu and Kashmir. The Act aims to provide a reformatory system of reform of offenders and convert them into useful and law-abiding citizens of the country.
