About the Seminar

The 21st century has witnessed increasing interstate as well as intra-state conflicts which have caused large scale violations of human rights like genocide, ethnic cleansing, dislocation of populations and consequent refugee crises. This has necessitated a re-evaluation of the tenets of international humanitarian law which remains the sacrosanct instrument for upholding human rights in conflict prone areas. International humanitarian law is part of international law, which is the body of rules governing relations between States. International law is contained in agreements between States – treaties or conventions –in customary rules, which consist of State practise considered by them as legally binding, and in general principles.

International law is inextricably linked to the domain of international relations where myriad aspects of state sovereignty, international economic exchanges, communication, people to people contacts, the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction (WMDs), global terrorism, climate change all intermeshed in creating the complex world order of the 21st century. The critical need of safeguarding the sanctity of human rights, upholding the principles of sovereign equality of nations based on territorial integrity and coordinating the global efforts to prevent catastrophic effects of climate change, combating global terrorism and mitigating the socio-economic and cultural effects of increasing migration, makes it imperative for a thorough analyses of the major postulates of international law in shaping and regulating international relations.

International law encompasses treaties, customary practices, general principles, and decisions of international courts and tribunals, creating a structural framework for regulating various aspects of international relations such as the role and relevance of the U.N. for the maintenance of a rules based international order, international diplomacy, multilateral trade and economic globalization, global human rights regime, proliferation of armed conflicts involving both state and non state actors (NSA), environmental protection, and more. Given the dynamic and constantly evolving nature of international law, new issues keep arising and states have to adapt to changing global realities. The enforcement of international law can at times be challenging due to the non binding nature of many international agreements and the inherent power politics of international relations. The failure of international law and its enforcement mechanisms to prevent the Rwandan genocide of 1994, the tragedy of refugee crisis in the aftermath of the Syrian Civil War since 2011, the Russian invasion of Ukraine (2022-continuing) and Israel's military aggression in Gaza since October 2023 which has assumed the proportions of a genocide against a defenceless civilian population are some of the most pertinent issues which has a direct bearing on international peace and security, thereby necessitating a serious academic scrutiny of the dynamics of international legal developments.

Surendranath Law College organized a Two Day International Seminar on the topic-'Dynamics of Internal Law in the Current Global Order : Contemporary Developments and Future Trajectories' on 16th and 18th November 2024 in Hybrid mode in the college premises for conducting serious academic deliberations on the diverse aspects of international relations which are governed by international law.

International legal developments are influenced by diplomatic negotiations, state practices, and decisions of international courts and tribunals. International justice mechanisms are important tools for preventing impunity and promoting a culture of accountability and respect for human rights at the global level. The potential adverse impacts of these challenges have become the subject of regulatory attention in a number of countries. The pursuit of international justice requires the collaboration of states, international organizations, global civil society, and as well as international legal professionals and activists. The seminar will be attended by stakeholders from the national level, researchers, academicians, and policymakers to deliberate and discuss innovative ideas on the synergies and synthesis of the concept of international law as a tool to achieve the ends of justice.

Objectives of the Seminar

- 1) To delve into the normative as well as empirical aspects of international law and their effects on major facets of international relations such as state and non state actors' interactions, global political economy, refugee and migration, traditional and non traditional aspects of security, environment, and international cultural ethos.
- 2) To propel the multi stake holder participants to engage in though provoking academic discourses with the aim of highlighting the dynamic facets of the applicability of international law to global affairs.
- 3) To address the legal and policy making challenges related to the enforceability of the principles of international law for the purpose of truly attaining the vision of a just world order.
- 4) To foster collaborative and innovative initiatives amongst all the stakeholders including academia, civil society organisations and the government relating to consciousness about the importance of international law for civilizational enrichment.

Expected Outcomes

- 1) The seminar would serve as a platform for dissemination of non partisan, theoretically authentic and innovative academic discourse on one of the most relevant areas concerning international peace and security as well as stability of global human rights regimes.
- 2) To create awareness and sensitization about the myriad challenges confronting humanity which are exacerbating the crisis of implementation of the sacrosanct principles of international law.
- 3) To identify the procedural as well as substantive areas of focus of enforcement of international law, which need improvisations, both in the domains of states' actions as well as the role of international organizations and global civil society.
- 4) To highlight some major recommendations of reforms mandated by international law in the governance principles of sovereign states for the aim of realization of a just world order.

Keynote Themes

- 1) The Role of the UN in Upholding the Principles of International Law— Analysis of the functioning , significance and relevance of major UN organs in fulfilling their legal mandate of protecting international law, role and efficacy of UN peacekeeping operations. The UN'S role in enforcement of international law, is an important component of sustaining peace which requires an integrated and comprehensive approach across the UN system, based on coherence between political, security, development, human rights, gender equality and rule of law activities in support of Member State-led efforts..

- 2) Threats to State Sovereignty Undermining International Order—Inter and intra state conflicts which are undermining the sacrosanct principles of state sovereignty and territorial integrity often involving foreign intervention. Russia’s invasion of Ukraine, the foreign intervention in Syrian Civil war, internal strife and conflicts in African countries.
- 3) International Law and Diplomacy—The role of international law in effecting multilateral global diplomacy. Specific case studies of major international treaties , conventions and protocols which represent the practical applications of international law such as UNCLOS, Paris Climate Agreement , Global Plastics Treaty etc and their relevance to global governance.
- 4) International Rule of Law—International Rule of law is indispensable for the maintenance of international peace and security, attaining socio-economic development and fostering an environment of protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms across the globe. International rule of law is one of the most important priority area of the U.N. having crucial relevance to contemporary issues, including technology, the planet, human rights, and access to justice.
- 5) The Advent of Humanitarian Intervention—The highly contested concept of “just wars” or humanitarian interventions albeit in the justification of democracy and human rights, but which in reality have contributed to complex humanitarian crises. Since 1990s multiple American military interventions with the objective of compelling regime changes in countries like Iraq, Libya , Afghanistan etc.

- 6) Ethnic Cleansing and Genocide—Arguably the most tragic consequences of failure of enforcement of international law has resulted in horrendous human suffering in the form of genocides and ethnic cleansing. The genocide in Rwanda (1994), ethnic cleansing in the Yugoslav Civil War (1991-1995), Kosovo (1998), and Israeli military aggression in Gaza since October 2023 aimed at committing genocide against hapless civilian population are some of the most important case studies.

- 7) International and National Intellectual Property Rights Laws—Intellectual property, being intangible property, indicates the creation of the human mind. The creation of the human mind mainly includes inventions and literary and artistic works, including symbols, names, images, and designs used for commercial purposes. Case studies relating to TRIPS, international patent laws, functioning of WIPO Treaty on genetic resources and traditional knowledge and their relevance to the Global South.

- 8) Refugee and Migration—The 21st century world is witnessing a formidable refugee crisis ranging from Rohingyas refugees fleeing persecution in Myanmar to other crisis flashpoints such as Syria which have instigated deep political fissures inside European Union on asylum policy to the increasing climate refugees who are losing their habit to environmental catastrophes. The patterns of global migration and immigration for economic, political , security factors are essentially re drawing the contours of globalization.

- 9) International Response to Global terrorism—Terrorism remains one of the most daunting challenges confronting humanity. The political discourse that someone's 'terrorist' is another's 'freedom fighter' innately problematizes this contested concept. Despite global efforts, the U.N. hitherto has been unsuccessful in arriving at a consensus on an internationally agreeable definition of terrorism. Nonetheless terrorism remains a scourge for all civilized societies.
- 10) Nuclear and Conventional Arms Proliferation and International Law—Global nuclear weapons non proliferation treaty regimes such as the NPT, CTBT have been a failure in preventing both vertical as well as horizontal nuclear proliferation which poses an existential threat to global humanity. The proliferation of WMDs amongst non state actors, arms transfers to areas of inter and intra state conflicts are all highly detrimental to maintenance of international peace and security.
- 11) International law related to Global Political Economy—The advent of a neo liberal economic order since the 1990s has accentuated global economic inequalities coalescing the Global South in demanding an alternative financial architecture for the world. The grievances against the WTO, IMF, rules of global trade, patent regime as well as TRIPS (Trade related aspects of intellectual property ) have led to the formation of organizations such as BRICS, IBSA etc which have profound ramifications for the world order.
- 12) Major Organizational Edifices of Enforcing International Law—International juristic organizations such as the International Court of Justice (ICJ), the International Criminal Court (ICC), which play a pivotal role in the enforcement of the ideals of international law, aimed at the hallowed objectives of attainment of global justice. The efficacy of these organizations in enforcing their judgements , especially in the face of opposition from sovereign states as well as powerful MNCs are a important area of analyzing the power dynamics in international relations.

- 13) International Environmental Law—The major treaties, conventions and protocols governing the preservation of global environment with the active involvement of multilateral international organizations such as UNEP. Major case studies on COPs, UNFCCC, Paris Climate Change Agreement, achieving target of net zero etc.

- 14) International Law and Global Commons—The role of international law in regulation and protection of the global commons such as oceans, atmosphere, polar regions and their assorted resources, outer space, historical and cultural heritage of mankind is extremely significant in managing international relations. The UNCLOS Treaty is an excellent illustration of successful global multilateral cooperation safeguarding the global commons. However newer threats are emerging in this domain such as the competition amongst big powers for militarisation of Arctic, as well as outer space. Academic analysis of international maritime and space laws assumes great significance in this regard.

- 15) International Criminal Court and the Rome Statute—The significance of the ICC in the enforcement of international law relating to mitigation of wars, genocides, crimes against humanity and aggression. Role the ICC in bringing to justice the perpetrators of crimes against humanity in recent conflicts such as the Syrian Civil War, Russian invasion of Ukraine, Israel-Gaza conflict and global terrorism which pose a serious challenge for world peace and human rights regime.

- 16) The Role and Significance of the International Court of Justice in International Relations—The ICJ's significance as the one of the principal organs of the U.N. in handling disputes between sovereign nation states for determination of instances of breach of international law. The ICJ exercises general jurisdiction over major facets of international law including territorial disputes, extent of diplomatic immunity as well as cases of ethnic cleansing and genocide. Major case studies involving the ICJ's jurisdiction having relevance to international relations such as the Corfu Channel case, Iran Hostage Crisis, Kulbhushan Yadav case, South Africa's genocide case against Israeli military operation in Gaza and the likes.
- 17) International Space Law—The major treaties governing the peaceful use of outer space for benefit of mankind are instrumental for maintaining international peace and security. Today the major global powers are developing advanced space weapons capable of carrying nuclear warheads in the form of anti-satellite and laser based weapons. The role of international space law to keep the outer space and moon safe from deployment of nuclear weaponry necessitates serious academic analysis.
- 18) Technology and Law: Cyber Crimes—The digital realm poses crucial challenges for nation states in governance with the advent of cyber crimes relating to online communication, e-commerce, digital privacy, dissemination of fundamentalist ideologies leading to radicalisation of youth, dark web facilitating in narcotics trade and human trafficking networks. The uses of the internet to perpetuate cyber crimes as well as development of offensive cyber warfare capabilities by major powers like U.S., Russia and China today pose a serious challenge to global peace and world order.

19) Third World Approach to Reform of International Law—The Global South today has emerged as one of the most important drivers of the global political economy. The approach of the developing countries in analyzing international law as an instrument of legitimizing and reinforcing disparities in global political and economic structures perpetuating the North-South divide have profound implications for international affairs. The evolving alternative financial and political global architecture in the form of BRICS, SCO, etc necessitates an academic reevaluation of the third world approach to international law. The economic and political independence of the developing countries is being undermined by policies and laws dictated by the first world and the international institutions it controls.

20) Global Cosmopolitanism, Global Justice and International Relations—The prospects for an enduring peace in the international community through the enforcement of international law in the forms of binding non aggression pacts amongst major powers, international cooperation to achieve sustainable economic development, environmental protection and the creation of a just world order to attain the ideals of global justice and a cosmopolitan world order remains a sacrosanct goal of international law

About The College

Founded in the heart of the City of Joy by none other than Rastraguru Surendranath Banerjee, in 1885, now stands as one of India's oldest law college, Surendranath Law College. Affiliated to the University of Calcutta and recognized by the Bar Council of India, the college has evolved into a premier institution imparting legal education of high standards. Adding to its hundred and thirty seven years of glorious history, this college has presented India with some of her finest gems as the name connotes Dr. Rajendra Prasad (The first President of India), Shri Harendra Kumar (The first Governor of West Bengal), Justice Bijan Kumar Mukherjee (the first Bengali Chief Justice of India) and many other luminaries and eminent personalities. Since inception this college has produced and continues producing many legal luminaries, academicians as well as corporate personalities. In 1882, the Presidency School which formed the nucleus of the present institution, was handed over to Sir Surendranath Banerjee on 1st January 1884. He raised it to the status of a college and named it 'The Presidency Institution'. Within a year the institution was converted into a full fledged college named Ripon College. Its role was further extended through the opening of the Post-Graduate Department of Law in 1884, which was later affiliated to the University of Calcutta in 1885, as an independent professional college.

Presently, Surendranath Law College imparts five year B.A. LL.B. and 5 years B.A. LL.B. (Honours) course and two year LL.M. course. ## About the Seminar : Concept Note

The 21st century has witnessed increasing interstate as well as intra-state conflicts which have caused large scale violations of human rights like genocide, ethnic cleansing, dislocation of populations and consequent refugee crises. This has necessitated a re-evaluation of the tenets of international humanitarian law which remains the sacrosanct instrument for upholding human rights in conflict prone areas. International humanitarian law is part of international law, which is the body of rules governing relations between States. International law is contained in agreements between States – treaties or conventions – in customary rules, which consist of State practice considered by them as legally binding, and in general principles.

International law is inextricably linked to the domain of international relations where myriad aspects of state sovereignty, international economic exchanges, communication, people to people contacts, the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction (WMDs), global terrorism, climate change all intermeshed in creating the complex world order of the 21st century. The critical need of safeguarding the sanctity of human rights, upholding the principles of sovereign equality of nations based on territorial integrity and coordinating the global efforts to prevent catastrophic effects of climate change, combating global terrorism and mitigating the socio-economic and cultural effects of increasing migration, makes it imperative for a thorough analyses of the major postulates of international law in shaping and regulating international relations.

International law encompasses treaties, customary practices, general principles, and decisions of international courts and tribunals, creating a structural framework for regulating various aspects of international relations such as the role and relevance of the U.N. for the maintenance of a rules based international order, international diplomacy, multilateral trade and economic globalization, global human rights regime, proliferation of armed conflicts involving both state and non state actors (NSA), environmental protection, and more. Given the dynamic and constantly evolving nature of international law, new issues keep arising and states have to adapt to changing global realities. The enforcement of international law can at times be challenging due to the non binding nature of many international agreements and the inherent power politics of international relations.

The failure of international law and its enforcement mechanisms to prevent the Rwandan genocide of 1994, the tragedy of refugee crisis in the aftermath of the Syrian Civil War since 2011, the Russian invasion of Ukraine (2022-continuing) and Israel's military aggression in Gaza since October 2023 which has assumed the proportions of a genocide against a defenceless civilian population are some of the most pertinent issues which has a direct bearing on international peace and security, thereby necessitating a serious academic scrutiny of the dynamics of international legal developments.

Surendranath Law College is organizing a two day International Seminar on the topic- 'Dynamics of International Law in the Current Global Order : Contemporary Developments and Future Trajectories' on 16th and 18th November 2024 in Hybrid mode in the college premises for conducting serious academic deliberations on the diverse aspects of international relations which are governed by international law. International legal developments are influenced by diplomatic negotiations, state practices, and decisions of international courts and tribunals. International justice mechanisms are important tools for preventing impunity and promoting a culture of accountability and respect for human rights at the global level. The potential adverse impacts of these challenges have become the subject of regulatory attention in a number of countries. The pursuit of international justice requires the collaboration of states, international organizations, global civil society, and as well as international legal professionals and activists. The seminar will be attended by stakeholders from the national level, researchers, academicians, and policymakers to deliberate and discuss innovative ideas on the synergies and synthesis of the concept of international law as a tool to achieve the ends of justice.

Objectives of the Seminar

- 1) To delve into the normative as well as empirical aspects of international law and their effects on major facets of international relations such as state and non state actors' interactions, global political economy, refugee and migration, traditional and non traditional aspects of security, environment, and international cultural ethos.
- 2) To propel the multi stake holder participants to engage in though provoking academic discourses with the aim of highlighting the dynamic facets of the applicability of international law to global affairs.
- 3) To address the legal and policy making challenges related to the enforceability of the principles of international law for the purpose of truly attaining the vision of a just world order.
- 4) To foster collaborative and innovative initiatives amongst all the stakeholders including academia, civil society organisations and the government relating to consciousness about the importance of international law for civilizational enrichment.

Expected Outcomes

- 1) The seminar would serve as a platform for dissemination of non partisan, theoretically authentic and innovative academic discourse on one of the most relevant areas concerning international peace and security as well as stability of global human rights regimes.
- 2) To create awareness and sensitization about the myriad challenges confronting humanity which are exacerbating the crisis of implementation of the sacrosanct principles of international law.
- 3) To identify the procedural as well as substantive areas of focus of enforcement of international law, which need improvisations, both in the domains of states' actions as well as the role of international organizations and global civil society.
- 4) To highlight some major recommendations of reforms mandated by international law in the governance principles of sovereign states for the aim of realization of a just world order.

Keynote Themes

- 1) The Role of the UN in Upholding the Principles of International Law—Analysis of the functioning, significance and relevance of major UN organs in fulfilling their legal mandate of protecting international law, role and efficacy of UN peacekeeping operations. The UN'S role in enforcement of international law, is an important component of sustaining peace which requires an integrated and comprehensive approach across the UN system, based on coherence between political, security, development, human rights, gender equality and rule of law activities in support of Member State-led efforts..
- 2) Threats to State Sovereignty Undermining International Order—Inter and intra state conflicts which are undermining the sacrosanct principles of state sovereignty and territorial integrity often involving foreign intervention. Russia's invasion of Ukraine, the foreign intervention in Syrian Civil war, internal strife and conflicts in African countries.
- 3) International Law and Diplomacy—The role of international law in effecting multilateral global diplomacy. Specific case studies of major international treaties, conventions and protocols which represent the practical applications of international law such as UNCLOS, Paris Climate Agreement, Global Plastics Treaty etc and their relevance to global governance.
- 4) International Rule of Law—International Rule of law is indispensable for the maintenance of international peace and security, attaining socio-economic development and fostering an environment of protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms across the globe. International rule of law is one of the most important priority area of the U.N. having crucial relevance to contemporary issues, including technology, the planet, human rights, and access to justice.
- 5) The Advent of Humanitarian Intervention—The highly contested concept of "just wars" or humanitarian interventions albeit in the justification of democracy and human rights, but which in reality have contributed to complex humanitarian crises. Since 1990s multiple American military interventions with the objective of compelling regime changes in countries like Iraq, Libya, Afghanistan etc.

6) Ethnic Cleansing and Genocide—Arguably the most tragic consequences of failure of enforcement of international law has resulted in horrendous human suffering in the form of genocides and ethnic cleansing. The genocide in Rwanda (1994), ethnic cleansing in the Yugoslav Civil War (1991-1995), Kosovo (1998), and Israeli military aggression in Gaza since October 2023 aimed at committing genocide against hapless civilian population are some of the most important case studies.

7) International and National Intellectual Property Rights Laws—Intellectual property, being intangible property, indicates the creation of the human mind. The creation of the human mind mainly includes inventions and literary and artistic works, including symbols, names, images, and designs used for commercial purposes. Case studies relating to TRIPS, international patent laws, functioning of WIPO Treaty on genetic resources and traditional knowledge and their relevance to the Global South.

8) Refugee and Migration—The 21st century world is witnessing a formidable refugee crisis ranging from Rohingyas refugees fleeing persecution in Myanmar to other crisis flashpoints such as Syria which have instigated deep political fissures inside European Union on asylum policy to the increasing climate refugees who are losing their habit to environmental catastrophes. The patterns of global migration and immigration for economic, political, security factors are essentially re drawing the contours of globalization.

9) International Response to Global terrorism—Terrorism remains one of the most daunting challenges confronting humanity. The political discourse that someone's 'terrorist' is another's 'freedom fighter' innately problematizes this contested concept. Despite global efforts, the U.N. hitherto has been unsuccessful in arriving at a consensus on an internationally agreeable definition of terrorism. Nonetheless terrorism remains a scourge for all civilized societies.

10) Nuclear and Conventional Arms Proliferation and International Law—Global nuclear weapons non proliferation treaty regimes such as the NPT, CTBT have been a failure in preventing both vertical as well as horizontal nuclear proliferation which poses an existential threat to global humanity. The proliferation of WMDs amongst non state actors, arms transfers to areas of inter and intra state conflicts are all highly detrimental to maintenance of international peace and security.

11) International law related to Global Political Economy—The advent of a neo liberal economic order since the 1990s has accentuated global economic inequalities coalescing the Global South in demanding an alternative financial architecture for the world. The grievances against the WTO, IMF, rules of global trade, patent regime as well as TRIPS (Trade related aspects of intellectual property ) have led to the formation of organizations such as BRICS, IBSA etc which have profound ramifications for the world order.

12) Major Organizational Edifices of Enforcing International Law—International juristic organizations such as the International Court of Justice (ICJ), the International Criminal Court (ICC), which play a pivotal role in the enforcement of the ideals of international law, aimed at the hallowed objectives of attainment of global justice. The efficacy of these organizations in enforcing their judgements , especially in the face of opposition from sovereign states as well as powerful MNCs are a important area of analyzing the power dynamics in international relations.

13) International Environmental Law—The major treaties, conventions and protocols governing the preservation of global environment with the active involvement of multilateral international organizations such as UNEP. Major case studies on COPs, UNFCCC, Paris Climate Change Agreement, achieving target of net zero etc.

14) International Law and Global Commons—The role of international law in regulation and protection of the global commons such as oceans, atmosphere, polar regions and their assorted resources, outer space, historical and cultural heritage of mankind is extremely significant in managing international relations. The UNCLOS Treaty is an excellent illustration of successful global multilateral cooperation safeguarding the global commons. However newer threats are emerging in this domain such as the competition amongst big powers for militarisation of Arctic, as well as outer space. Academic analysis of international maritime and space laws assumes great significance in this regard.

15) International Criminal Court and the Rome Statute—The significance of the ICC in the enforcement of international law relating to mitigation of wars, genocides, crimes against humanity and aggression. Role the ICC in bringing to justice the perpetrators of crimes against humanity in recent conflicts such as the Syrian Civil War, Russian invasion of Ukraine, Israel-Gaza conflict and global terrorism which pose a serious challenge for world peace and human rights regime.

16) The Role and Significance of the International Court of Justice in International Relations—The ICJ's significance as the one of the principal organs of the U.N. in handling disputes between sovereign nation states for determination of instances of breach of international law. The ICJ exercises general jurisdiction over major facets of international law including territorial disputes, extent of diplomatic immunity as well as cases of ethnic cleansing and genocide. Major case studies involving the ICJ's jurisdiction having relevance to international relations such as the Corfu Channel case, Iran Hostage Crisis, Kulbhushan Yadav case, South Africa's genocide case against Israeli military operation in Gaza and the likes.

17) International Space Law—The major treaties governing the peaceful use of outer space for benefit of mankind are instrumental for maintaining international peace and security. Today the major global powers are developing advanced space weapons capable of carrying nuclear warheads in the form of anti satellite and laser based weapons. The role of international space law to keep the outer space and moon safe from deployment of nuclear weaponry necessitates serious academic analysis.

18) Technology and Law: Cyber Crimes—The digital realm poses crucial challenges for nation states in governance with the advent of cyber crimes relating to online communication, e commerce, digital privacy, dissemination of fundamentalist ideologies leading to radicalisation of youth, dark web facilitating in narcotics trade and human trafficking networks. The uses of the internet to perpetuate cyber crimes as well as development of offensive cyber warfare capabilities by major powers like U.S., Russia and China today pose a serious challenge to global peace and world order.

19) Third World Approach to Reform of International Law—The Global South today has emerged as one of the most important drivers of the global political economy. The approach of the developing countries in analyzing international law as an instrument of legitimizing and reinforcing disparities in global political and economic structures perpetuating the North-South divide have profound implications for international affairs. The evolving alternative financial and political global architecture in the form of BRICS, SCO, etc necessitates an academic reevaluation of the third world approach to international law. The economic and political independence of the developing countries is being undermined by policies and laws dictated by the first world and the international institutions it controls.

20) Global Cosmopolitanism, Global Justice and International Relations—The prospects for an enduring peace in the international community through the enforcement of international law in the forms of binding non aggression pacts amongst major powers, international cooperation to achieve sustainable economic development, environmental protection and the creation of a just world order to attain the ideals of global justice and a cosmopolitan world order remains a sacrosanct goal of international law.

Dr. Sarani Roy, Assistant Professor ( English), Surendranath Law College introduced the international resource person and the first speaker of the session, Prof. (Dr.) Kokila Lankathilake Konasinghe, Professor & Head of Department of Public & International Law, University of Colombo, Sri Lanka. She is the first ever Professor of Environmental Law in the Department of Public & International Law, University of Colombo.

She delivered her presentation on the topic 'Adopting Eco Centric Approach in Teaching Environmental Law: A Future Projection' Prof. Konasinghe highlighted about intergenerational responsibility in ensuring equity, justice and fairness in society by protection of environmental resources for future generation. She highlighted the challenges faced by the Global South countries due to unsustainable and inequitable development strategies being pursued by the developed West at the expense of the developing nations.

Prof. Konasinghe highlighted the importance of sustainable development in creating harmony between nature and attainment of economic development. She discussed the 'anthropocentric approach' which holds human beings as superior as compared to all other living species thereby leading to exploitation of the environment. Dr. Konasinghe then highlighted the vital significance of the Eco centric Approach which considers human beings as part of the holistic environmental sphere and not superior than the other living organisms. Under the rights based approach in environmental protection under the Eco-centric approach, Prof. Konasinghe explained the legal personality of natural entities. She emphasized upon the rights of nature ( right to exist, evolve and protection) and the concept of 'Earth jurisprudence' which is related to the existence of human beings as a part of the broader Earth community.

Prof. Konasinghe proceeded to elaborate the main pathways for attainment of Eco centric approach which she categorized as a) Constitutional guarantees b) Legislative enactments and c) Judicial interpretation. She highlighted the case studies in Bangladesh, India, Canada , New Zealand which have adopted these strategies to protect their environmental resources And adopting sustainable developmental strategies. Prof. Konasinghe concluded her presentation by stating the responsibility of countries, civil societies as well as academics and students in adopting the eco centric approach in their developmental strategies. South Asian countries have the responsibility to protect and promote rights of nature. The UN General Aassembly called upon the International Court of Justice in December 2024 calling for advisory opinion on climate change. The UNCLOS also delivered its advisory opinion on the same matter thereby institutionalizing a new framework of international environmental global governance.

Dr. Rajarsi Das , Assistant Professor (Law), Surendranath Law College delivered the vote of thanks for Prof. Konasinghe's presentation.

He then introduced the second resource person Prof. (Dr.) Mohd. Nafees Ahmad Ansari, Professor & Chairman , Department of Political Science, Aligarh Muslim University (AMU) . He delivered his presentation on the topic , 'Global Migration in the Era of Crisis : Rethinking Asylum Policies and Humanitarian Responses'. His area of specialization is Public Administration. Prof. Ansari 's presentation mainly focussed upon migration policies, asylum practices and humanitarian responses globally. He highlighted the limitations of existing asylum policies in the current international relations. He highlighted the community driven approaches to the integration of migration. He highlighted the asylum policies of countries like Germany & Canada which are prime examples of liberal asylum protection regimes globally. Prof. Ansari highlighted the significance of 19th and 20th century where due to Industrial Revolution and two World Wars where global migration emerged as a defining global phenomena. The scale and complexity of migration in the 21st Century requires a fundamental rethink of refugee policies as civil strife, climate change, ethnic cleansing and economic factors are creating new factors governing migration.

Conflicts in regions like Middle East, Africa, Ukraine are displacing millions. Climate change and economic disparities between global North & South are also new drivers of global migration. Refugees with specific rights under 1951 refugee Convention are a specific category which does not cover climate change induced refugees. So there exists a limitation of existing refugee policies. These conventions focussing on individual persecution fails to address the broader factors driving forced migration such as climate change, conflicts and economic disparities. Prof. Ansari highlighted how the rich European Union (E.U.) countries are protecting their national borders from refugee influx by prevailing upon underdeveloped countries such as Rwanda to accept migrants. Similarly the U.S. has implemented measures like Title 42 using public health as a pretext to deny asylum seekers entry undermining international humanitarian law. The illegal detention of asylum seekers in the U.S. and E.U. nations without explicit legal safeguards has emerged as a serious challenge to global human rights protection mechanism. In some cases detention seekers are imprisoned for years resulting in forcible deportations. Negative stereotype prejudices create a hostile environment for asylum seekers including deniability of social acceptance, housing and employment. Refugee camps are a temporary solution with overcrowding, poor sanitation and sub human living conditions.

Long term solutions are very important for a humanitarian approach to the migrants' problem. A multi stake holder solution is needed to address the issue. Donors' fatigue, funding inertia and fragmented policies leading to unequal responsibility sharing is leading to a crisis in framing a humane global asylum and migrants protection policy. Restrictive policies often push asylum seekers into unsafe practices leading to human trafficking. The Global South bears a disproportionate amount of refugee burden despite their economic burdens, whereas the Global North despite economic resources shirk its responsibility. Prof. Ansari concluded by stating that a just international asylum protection mechanism is the need of the hour which should incorporate inclusive and transparent governance, equity and elimination of inherent biases against migrants. Addressing root causes of migration such as conflicts , economic inequality and climate change is indispensable for tackling the challenge of global migration challenge.

Ms. Nivedita Baraily Assistant Professor (Political Science), Surendranath Law College delivered the vote of thanks for Prof. Nafees Ahmad Ansari's presentation.

The post lunch session commenced at 1:30 P.M. Dr. Shubhdeep Chakrabarti Convenor of the Seminar and Assistant Professor (Political Science) Surendranath Law College gave the introductory remarks about the third resource person . Dr. Caesar Roy Assistant Assistant Professor (Political Science), Surendranath Law College delivered the welcome address Prof. (Dr.) Manoj Kumar Sinha, Vice Chancellor, Dharmashastra National Law University, Jabalpur. Previously he was the Director of Indian Law Institute, New Delhi. He title of presentation – 'Responsibility to Protect : An Effort for Legitimising Humanitarian Intervention'.

Prof. Sinha in his presentation focussed upon the world post 1960s and 1970s witnessed several new developments in the field of public international law which addressed the developments effectively. He cited the efforts to codify international law of the sea starting from 1948 culminating with UNCLOS ( United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea ) in 1982. The 20th Century witnessed the codification of international human rights law in the 1950s international humanitarian law and international refugee law. The Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR) of 1948 is a landmark in this domain followed by International Refugee Convention (1951). The international community then was of the view in 1950s that refugee problem was a Europe specific issue and not a global concern . The Refugee Convention was only applicable to European continent. The UNHCR started looking at ways to make this convention a permanent one leading to the adoption of a permanent protocol in 1967 to remove temporal and geographical limitations plaguing the 1951 Convention.

Prof. Sinha went on to highlight that there is a thin line of distinction between refugees and internally displaced persons (IDPs). IDPs are individuals facing persecution within the national borders of a country and displaced from their place of residence. Prof. Sinha highlighted the recent conflicts between Russia & Ukraine and Israel and Gaza leading to persecution of innocent people on a massive scale and leading to untold suffering of refugees and IDPs. Israel is occupying Gaza leading to serious violations of international humanitarian law incorporating laws of warfare. Protection of individuals become paramount in conflict situations. International law is dynamic and a cornerstone of Responsibility to Protect (R2P) or humanitarian intervention. Prof. Sinha explained at the global level, state itself is the subject of international law but in the domestic level it's the responsibility of the State to protect its citizens. In cases of genocide and ethnic cleansing in Rwanda, Somalia and Sudan where state complicity in violence is proven then R2P becomes a critical necessity for the international community. Primary responsibility of the State shifts in such cases to the international community. This also comes into conflict with U.N. Principles of safeguarding sovereignty of Member States. In cases of adherence to the principles of International Relations, applicability of principles of international law takes a backseat as power politics undermines international law leading to its gross violations by power countries. Israel has blocked the entry of U.N. Secretary General in Gaza. Article 2 paragraph 1, Article 24 & Article 34 of the U.N. Charter are blatantly violated. From the time the U.N. has come into existence the P-5 countries by virtue of their veto powers have effectively rendered the U.N. ineffective. He highlighted the cases of unlawful interventions by Western powers in Iraq, Libya, Afghanistan as gross violations of international law. International law largely remains a hostage subject to its interpretation and control by the big powers.

Ms. Aankita Ganguly , Faculty (Political Science), Surendranath Law College delivered the vote of thanks to Prof. Manoj Kumar Sinha.

Concerns over and consequences of rejecting constitutional pluralism

1. Prone to abuse
2. Does not help protect rights
3. Leads to unsolvable conflicts
4. Too complicated (does not pass 'Occam's razor test')

❖ Therefore, EU (member state) courts ought to

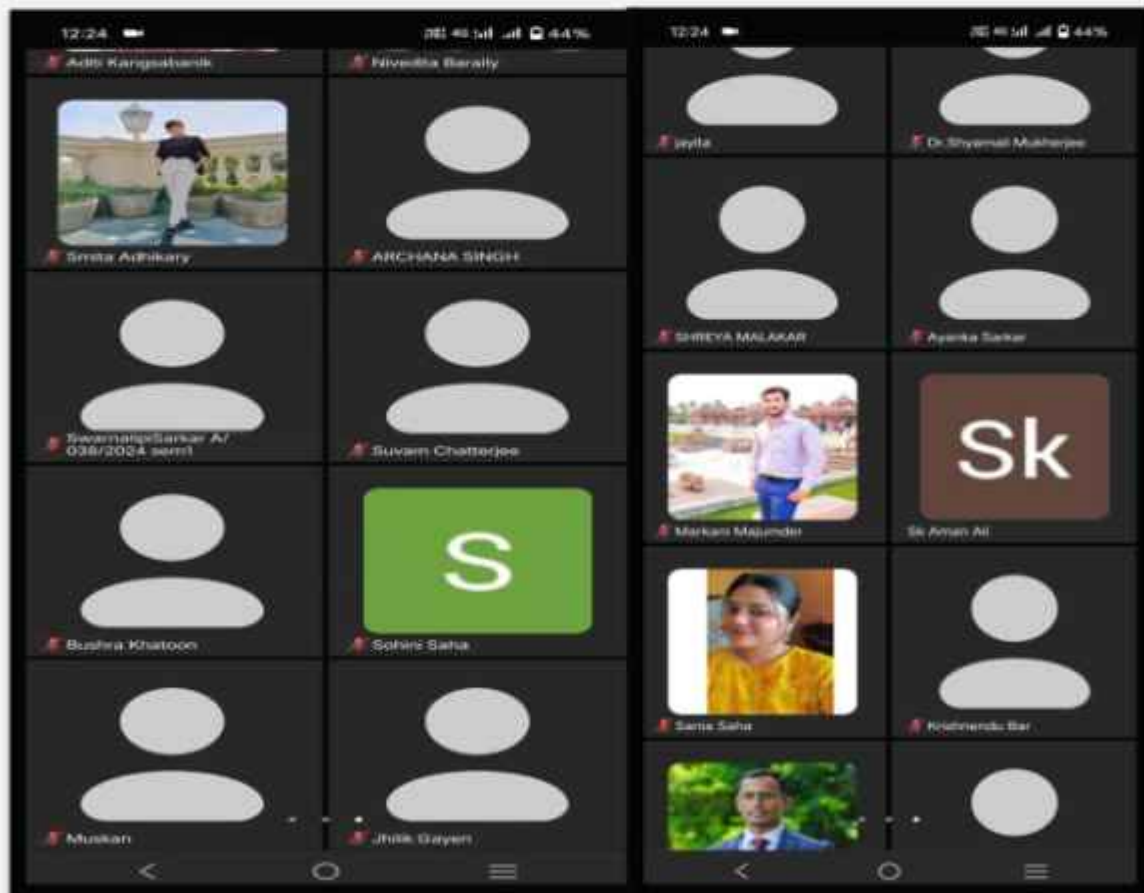

1. commit to EU law supremacy (even above national constitutions)
2. accept the CJEU as authoritative ultimate interpreter of EU law
3. recognize the hierarchical structure of law

❖ This tells us that

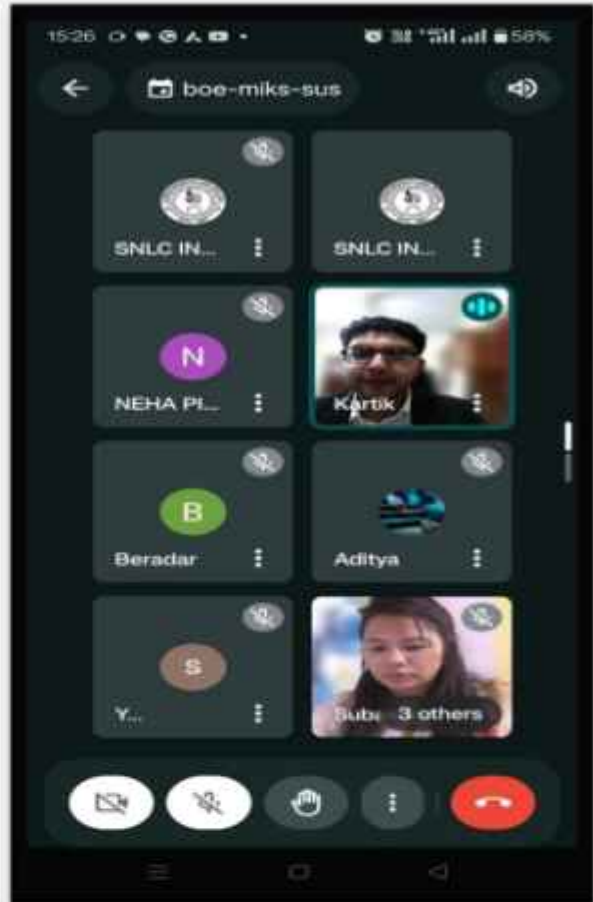

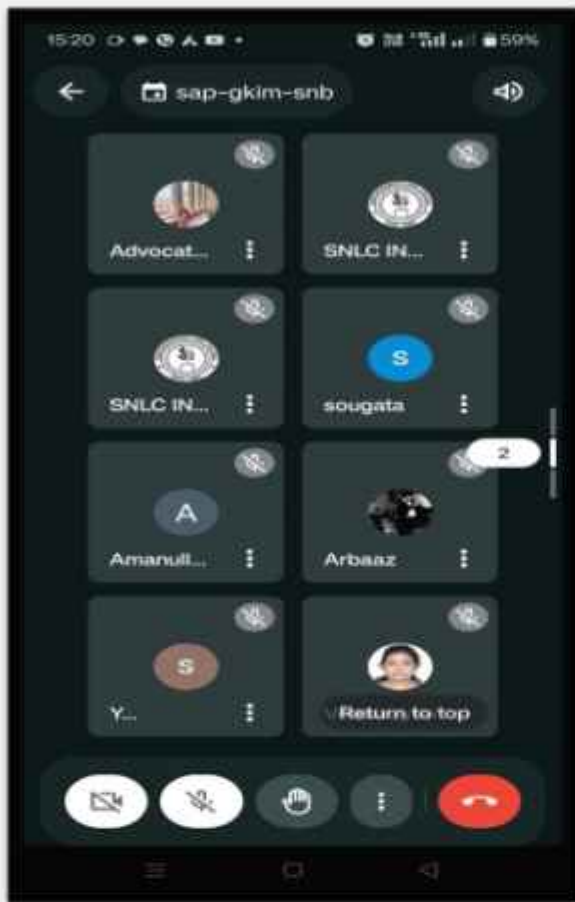

1. the EU is differentiated (various degrees of association)
2. EU law supremacy guarantees the effectiveness of EU constitutionalism

General Nature and Characteristics of Terrorism

- Terrorism aims to create and instill fear and disrupt societal harmony.
- Unlike typical crimes, it is public and unpredictable, having deep psychological effects.
- Motivations are diverse and not uniformly applicable worldwide.

Meaning and Approaches

- Defining terrorism is contentious.
- While some governments use the term to justify power, others struggle with "one person's terrorist is another's freedom fighter."
- Terrorist factors, including organization and motives, complicate definitions.
